gāngotri group

Gangotri Group was started by the late Lala Roshanlalji in 1949 as a retail & wholesale shop. His son late Gopal Das ran the shop, spread the business all over India and passed it down to his son Narendra Agrawal in 1982. He spread this business internationally in retail, wholesale and export of garments by the name of Gangotri Exports.

Narendra Agrawal also started a Real Estate in 1989. He is a trusted symbol in real estate in Vrindavan. Hundreds of member of ISKCON and other organizations & individuals have faith dealing with his company because of fair and transparent dealing of sale and purchase of properties. Narendra Agrawal is well known social & political figure in state.

Narendra Agrawal's son, Avdhesh Agrawal has now joined in 2004 and took the business to next level and added Gangotriexports.com and Gangotri Vrindavan Textfab pvt Ltd, Gangotri Infratech under guidance of his father.

ISKCON, MVT, Kirtan Ashram, HH Bhakti Chaitanya Swami and Prabha Vishnu Swami Ashram, Parvati mataji's house (Srila Prabhupada Samadhi seva) Food for Life Society, Sandipani school, FFL hospital, Russian Yatra Land and most lands and houses of devotees were purchased by our consultation and advice.

about the project

Due to high demand and lack of good housing for devotees, we have started building Gangotri VAAS apartments, walking distance from ISKCON temple. This is our first effort. We will present a homey feeling environment in this location.

We are blessed with 100% satisfaction, deliver project on time with high quality construction.

about vrindavan

In the 17th century, somewhere in a forest of Uttar Pradesh, a musician of high spiritual quotient was immersed in chanting melodious songs on Lord Krishna. His transcendence became so powerful that an idol of Lord Krishna emerged from the ground of that forest. The musician was Swami Haridas, the forest was in Vrindavan and about the idol, its story begins in a while...

The forest land of Vrindavan in Mathura district of Uttar Pradesh finds its mention in epics like Ramayana and Mahabharata as the playground of Lord Krishna. It is where he spent his childhood and performed various unfathomable miracles. While the forest of Vrindavan has condensed to a few square kilometres, the land still holds its spiritual aura and a profound religious charm that attracts millions from practically every country and every religion in the world.

As you enter Vrindavan from Chhatikara Mod, you will find a myriad setup of hotels, eateries and residential societies (some under construction) around you. On the small street called Parikrama Road, amidst all the buildings, are present a large number of what can be called tourists or pilgrims or locals. While there are over 2000 temples in Vrindavan, some are clearly more popular than the rest.
